This is an example of the standard normal distribution.

This graph shows the probability that a random variable takes a value less than –1.96 or greater than 1.96.