

A citation count tells you how many times an article was cited and will often link to the publications that have cited the article in their own bibliographies.